Abstract:	Biography: The Fort Worth Library hold the Cook Children's Medical Center Collection, which resulted from the 1985 merger of Cook Children's Hospital and Fort Worth Children's Hospital. The Fort Worth Free Baby Hospital opened on March 21, 1918, under the leadership of Mrs. Ida L. Turner. The hospital was located near the present TCU campus, and all building materials and hospital furnishings were donated. In 1961, the Baby Hospital received a new location on Cooper Street and changed its name to Fort Worth Children's Hospital. W.I. Cook Memorial Hospital was built with oil royalties from the Cook Ranch near Albany, Texas, in 1929. In 1952, Cook Memorial dedicated itself to study the effects of polio on children, therefore changing its name to Cook Children's Hospital. Provenance: The Cook Children's Medical Center materials were donated in 1999 to the Fort Worth Public Library.
Holdings:	Inclusive dates for the holding of the Cook Children's Medical Center records are 1919-1999. Some of our materials include: SERIES I: WOMEN'S AUXILIARY, 1971 - 1992, which contains scrapbooks and reports produced by said entity. The scrapbooks are in eleven boxes, arranged in chronological order. The reports are from meetings held by, and for, the Auxiliary members. These reports are divided into meeting minutes and treasurer reports; they are in one box containing two folders. SERIES II: JUNIOR VOLUNTEERS, 1958 - 1994 contains scrapbooks produced by the Junior Volunteers. The scrapbooks are arranged in four boxes, arranged in chronological order.
